Project Description

The Lincolnshire Agricultural Society was looking to create an innovative new centre, which would not only be a multi function site but would also explore low carbon technologies and responses to global warming. A built up green roof system was specified as the most viable option.

Under 1 were appointed by Terry Deighton, Managing Director of Everlast Waterproofing Ltd, to provide their independent knowledge of green roof systems and installation requirements in order for the green roof to perform to the best of its abilities.

Numerous site visits were conducted and progress was monitored and re-laid through written reports to the client.

Project Description

Following the floods during Summer 2007 in Sheffield, initiatives were set up to prevent such havoc from reoccurring. The councils ultimate aim was to increase the number of buildings incorporating sustainable design, building material and construction techniques, e.g. the use of passive ventilation, sustainable timber and green roofs.

It is due to these initiatives that we find the need to provide cost effective advice, in order to encourage sustainability, at a reasonable price.

The roof was designed to provide water retention and provide an ecologically viable roofing system.

Under1 conducted a number of site visits, accompanied with progress reports to maintain the progress and address any snagging issues.

All you need. All Under 1 Roof.
